SUMMER CAMP

This sultry summer, when morning with bright sun rays were synonymous to scorching noon, I got a call from Payel ma'am, our English teacher, furnishing me with the golden opportunity for attending a summer camp organised by the Times Of India group in collaboration with Radio Mirchi. It was a five day camp ranging from 23rd May to 27th May, 2019. 27 schools participated in the camp, 3 students from each school. Our mentors divided us into 10 groups in such a manner that no 2 students from the same school were in the same group. We campers were fortunate enough to design our own newspaper, visit the printing press, and attend a session conducted by Parikshit Sir, one of the mentors from The TIE group. He explained us how many steps are there to publish a single day news, how a number of people are toiling day & night from collecting the news to print it and to serve it at our morning tea table.

Our venue on the 5th day was Acropolis Mall. We were at 98.3 Radio Mirchi station. We viewed the set ups of an on Air Radio Station which thrilled us at the peak. Mir Afsar Ali or Mirchi Mir was standing just before us. Selfies and autographs were the peak hour. Finally the day ended 'Coffee with Mir' and so did our camp. The first camp of my life taught me teamwork, time management, hard work, and the endeavour of a leader to motivate his/her team.
